

Privacy Policy

To maintain your right to privacy while shopping with us is one of our biggest priorities. We, thus, only ask for the most necessary information that is required for us to complete your order or to contact you regarding its status. The information we collect includes your name, email address, shipping address and billing address. Apart from the RAV Bazaar team, this information is only shared with our associated courier partner that will be delivering your ordered items. Please be assured that ravbazaar.com does not store your credit / debit card or online bank account information. Please note that ravbazaar.com reserves the right to update this Privacy Policy at any time. We will send you an intimation of the same on the email address that you have shared with us. This also further states that ravbazaar.com only stores information that is uploaded by you during the registration process, along with shared comments, conversations and interactions with other members on the website. No information such as credit / debit card details or online bank account information, etc., is stored in our database. These details are directly entered by you into the bank payment gateways, which are secure. We do not handle this sensitive data or store it. As you browse www.ravbazaar.com, advertising cookies will be placed on your computer so that we can understand what you are interested in. Our display advertising partner enables us to present you with retargeting advertising on other sites based on your previous interaction with www.ravbazaar.com. The techniques our partners employ do not collect personal information such as your name, email address, postal address or telephone number.